Some lawyers do not like a Chancery suit to end, and resist reforms which will reduce their fees, and render them less indispensable. Chartered companies in some cases resent to the utmost, and are tempted to cause bloodshed, in order that their vested interest may not suffer, and their monopoly not be destroyed by open competition. In like manner in the case of Eehoboam, nothing less than a message from God would have induced him to allow his kingdom to be rent in twain, and the Ten Tribes to be under a sceptre held by another hand. Again still more to the point--what was it which roused to its highest pitch the malignant enmity of the Pharisees and Chief Priests against the Lord of Life, if not the direct forebodings that they...
