Excerpt from The Fanciers Journal and Poultry Exchange, Vol. 2 The Dachshund, Teckel, or German Badger Hound has of late been working up for a separate class at competitive shows, and we really think he should be accommodated, for it is very certain he is getting a great favorite in this country, and is fancied and bred almost exclusively by the upper ten. We believe the Prince of Wales was the first to go in for the breed in this island, and the Eoyal kennels now possess specimens as good, or probably better, than any in the Fatherland. Whether the Dachshund is an animal we are likely to derive any benefit from as a sporting dog it is difficult to say, but as an illustration of the extent to which man can twist nature it is a most interesting variety, and as deserving of perpetuation as the Bull-dog, the Toyterrier, or the Pug. Formerly, we believe, they were used almost entirely for hunting the badger, but are now employed in Germany and France in a similar manner to our own rabbit beagles. As...
